

CAUGHT IRWIN'S WIFE WITH GRAY, DETECTIVE SAYS

Raided Hotel to Get Evidence to Back Manufacturer's Divorce Suit.

GOT SOME SNAPSHOTS.

Disclosures on Witness Stand
Stir Up Large Part of Brooklyn Society.

The story of the sensational raid by Edward W. Irwin, the wealthy Brooklyn manufacturer, accompanied by his brother and three private detectives, at the Atlantic Inn, Grand City, S. L., when he claims he surprised Mrs. Irwin and John C. Gray in a room, was told by Samuel A. Silvers, one of the detectives, before the trial of the suit for absolute divorce brought by the husband was resumed before Judge Crane in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, today.

The suit and the disclosures which A. Deas Kneeb, attorney for Mr. Irwin, claims to have brought out, has agitated a large portion of Brooklyn society as the Irwins are prominent and have been popular. They have entertained extensively in their handsome home in Clinton street and at their summer home near Lynbrook, Long Island.

The court case was closed. Mrs. Irwin was there with her mother, Mrs. Hicks, and both women, dressed in black, listened attentively, apparently without the slightest bit of emotion.

Co-Respondent in Court.

Mrs. Irwin is blonde, tall and handsome. Mr. Irwin is in court and so was the co-respondent, Mr. Gray, an artist and decorator, who is represented by John C. McGuire.

Martin W. Littleton cross-examined Silvers. The man is now a clerk in the Imperial Hotel, in Jersey City, but he said that he had been employed by Mr. Irwin last February to watch Mrs. Irwin. Robert Irwin, a brother of the husband, on Feb. 23, said Silvers, engaged room No. 2 in the Atlantic Inn, which was next to room No. 1, occupied by Mrs. Irwin and Gray.

The morning of Feb. 26 Silvers, accompanied by two other private detectives named Coyle and Kent, took a post near the hotel, and at about 10:30 o'clock saw Mrs. Irwin and Gray go in. A little later they were joined by the husband and a friend, and Mr. Parish, the five men waited on the roadside until they received a signal from the window of the room occupied by Robert Irwin.

Got Snapshots, He Says.

"He waved a handkerchief," said Silvers, "and we knew Mrs. Irwin and Gray were in the adjoining room. A man tried to stop us from going upstairs, but Mr. Irwin brushed him aside. We went to the door of room No. 1 and Parish broke in the door panels. I struck my head against the door and unlocked the door and we went in."

Silvers said that Parish was the first in and that he produced a kodak from his pocket and took several snapshots. The detective said Mrs. Irwin was adjusting her belt, that Gray was sitting on his cot and that there were several empty cocktail glasses on a table.

USUAL SUCCESS ATTENDS COOPER DEMONSTRATION.

Alexander Walsh Pays Tribute to Curative Properties of New Stomach Remedy.

The success attending the demonstration of the Cooper remedies at the new location, Riker's New Drug Store, Sixth avenue and Forty-second street, is a repetition of Mr. Cooper's reputation wherever he has appeared in New York since he came here some months ago. Regarding his experience with the Cooper preparations, Alexander Walsh, residing at No. 37 West 111th street, New York, says:

"While many statements by New Yorkers have already been published, telling of the splendid results derived from the use of the Cooper remedies, I feel that I would be shirking my duty if I failed to add my tribute to the marvelous curative properties of Cooper's New Discovery."

"For ten years or more I suffered from catarrh of the stomach with all of its distressing symptoms—pain after eating, gas on stomach, poor appetite, loss of sleep, nervous, weak, tired and that run-down feeling. In addition to this I had chronic constipation, which was a constant source of trouble and annoyance."

"I consulted doctors and tried many different remedies in search of relief, but was not benefited until I took a treatment of Cooper's New Discovery. It is due entirely to this preparation that I now enjoy good health. It relieved me in a surprisingly short time, aiding digestion and stopping the pain and distress which I had always experienced after eating."

"The gas on my stomach has entirely disappeared, and my bowels have become regular and nature in their action. I have not felt so well in years as I do now. Any one who is troubled with stomach disorder or any kind of ailment would do well to try Cooper's New Discovery."

Modern American Wife More Comrade Than Ever, Women Answer Scientist

Only a Man Without Brains Wants a Brainless Wife, Says Mrs. Loebinger, Who Is Quick at Repariee.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

Prof. E. A. Ross, of the University of Wisconsin, has declared that man doesn't want a helpmeet any more. "What the American of today requires in a wife," says the learned sociologist, "is that she shall present herself in the light of a luxury. He doesn't want a wife that knows too much. He doesn't want self-control or mentality in a woman. Women then must shape their ideals and characters to please men."

What has the woman militant to say to this? "Ridiculous!" she answered yesterday in the person of Mrs. Sofia Loebinger, prominent suffragette and club woman, of New York, who returned recently from a summer in Europe, where she conferred with the foreign leaders of the woman movement.

Mrs. Loebinger ought to know what she is talking about; for she is a helpmeet as well as a suffragette, and, strangely enough, it was her husband, Dr. Loebinger, who converted her to the cause of woman's emancipation.

"Man needs a helpmeet to-day more than ever before," she declared, "and, generally speaking, he has sense enough to realize it. What Prof. Ross says is perfectly true of a very limited class—multi-millionaires, for instance, who seek the very latest 1908 model in a wife just as they do in an automobile. To them a wife is a luxury—as she is indeed to any man who can afford a valet. But to the millions of poor men all over the world the word wife is becoming more and more synonymous with companion and comrade."

Found This True Abroad.

"I was particularly struck with this in Germany, where women now attend political meetings with their husbands, and give every evidence of intelligent interest in the great affairs of the world. The men don't resent this, but, on the contrary, seem gratified by it. "Only inferior men resent mentality in women. I have never yet seen a really clever woman that wasn't more popular with men by her cleverness. There are a few so-called strong minded women who make themselves unpopular with men, because, unfortunately, they believe that the only way to prove they have brains is to take it for granted that no one else has any. But their number is too small to count in the mass."

"There is hardly a successful man in America to-day who wouldn't declare gladly that his wife has made him what he is."

Women Elected Taft.

"Take the case of President-elect Taft, who, however great his capacity may be, undoubtedly owed his election to two women, his sister-in-law and his wife. Everybody knows that Mr. Taft's personal ambitions were toward the Supreme Court. It was Mrs. Taft, whom he laughingly calls the politician of the family, that urged him to stay in the Cabinet, and therefore in the line of direct succession, and it was his sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Taft, who furnished a quarter of a million dollars for his campaign. All the wives of our prominent men are helpmeets in the true sense of the term."

"As another instance, take Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, who studied law to assist her husband in his work. "Quite recently I noticed in The Evening World a prize contest for the best letter telling how a young married couple could live on $15 a week. The majority of the letters were from women, all of whom made their own clothes, and did the washing and housework, in order to live on their husband's salaries and put a dollar or so by for a rainy day. These women were all helpmeets in the true sense of the word."

The wall of nearly all poor young bachelors is that they can't afford to marry because girls expect so much nowadays. Where are the women who can cook and make their own clothes? they ask. That doesn't look as if they regarded women as properly in the class of luxuries."

"And you really don't think men prefer women without brains?" I queried.

"Only brainless men," Mrs. Loebinger replied. "Men are practical creatures. The man who finds himself burdened

GRILL TALES MEN ON SPITE CHARGE OF ACRI TELLI

Coroner Accused of Election
Fraud Wants no Palmieri
Men as His Jurors.

Coroner Peter P. Acritelli was placed on trial to-day before Justice Davis in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court on an indictment for misdemeanor growing out of alleged frauds in the election of 1907.

Coroner Acritelli lives at Lafayette and Broome streets, in the Third Assembly District. Two men registered from his home, one of whom, it is claimed, had no right to do so. When an investigator from the Bureau of Elections visited Acritelli's home to inquire about the two men he alleges the Coroner declared they had a right to register, as they lived at his place of residence.

One of the men subsequently turned informer and Acritelli was indicted for felony in aiding and abetting false registration and for misdemeanor in giving false answers. Judge Crane, in General Sessions dismissed both indictments on legal grounds, but a Special Grand Jury reindicted Acritelli.

When the trial was begun to-day Lawyer Abraham Levy, Acritelli's counsel, questioned the talesmen as to their qualifications as jurors, upon their acquaintance with Deputy Attorney-General John Palmieri, who is prosecuting the case. Mr. Levy, a few days ago in open court, declared that Acritelli's prosecution was due to spite on the part of Palmieri. Both men were until a few years ago friends.

BROTHER AND FRIEND DIE AT HANDS OF WIFE BEATER.

(Special to The Evening World.)
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 24.—John Hanco and Charles Bagotas, of Pittston, were shot and killed while trying to rescue the wife of Andrew Bagotas, who was beating her brutally because he found the door of his house locked when he got home at 2 o'clock this morning. The victims, one of whom was Bagotas's brother, were boarders in the house and were awakened by the shrieks of the woman, who cried that her husband was trying to kill her. They ran downstairs, pulled him away from her and tried to pacify him, but he shook them off, drew his revolver, shot his brother through the head, killing him instantly, and then shot Hanco through the body, the bullet striking an inch below his heart.

Bagotas fled and State troopers are now searching for him.

PULLS 12-YEAR-OLD "BURGLAR" FROM UNDER HER BED

Young Marauder Had Pal, but Hides His "Getaway,"
He Tells Woman.

TINY SHOES ON TABLE.

Mr. and Mrs. Molasky Start a
Search From Remarkable
Clue in the Kitchen.

When Mr. and Mrs. William Molasky returned from the theatre to their flat, at No. 549 South Third street, Williamsburg, last night, they were surprised to find a dim light in the kitchen. "Why, I didn't leave a light," said Mrs. Molasky, alarmed. "Gracious, can it be burglars? You go first and look, Bill."

"Don't scream, Annie," he whispered. "It's burglars, all right enough. I'm going to capture 'em—capture 'em before they get away." and he pointed with the air of a Sherlock Holmes at two pairs of shoes, neither larger than a No. 2 in size, on the kitchen table.

"Why, they're children's shoes," said Mrs. Molasky. The Molaskys have no children.

Then they started to search the flat, going first into the bedroom. "Mr. Molasky, armed with the rolling-pin, was poking about in a clothes press when his wife gave a little scream."

Pulled One From Under Bed.

"Come out, you rascal," she cried, tugging at something under the bed, something that kicked and squealed. In a second she pulled out the marauder, or rather one of them, for it developed that there had been two burglars. The one Mrs. Molasky captured was a very small, tousled, dirty little boy, bare-legged, hatless and with his knickers and coat on over his night clothes.

"I'll get a policeman," cried Mr. Molasky, and in a few minutes he returned with Policeman Krummell, the sight of whom so scared the "burglar" that he ran up a wall, and as they say in the story books, "confessed all."

"I do it," he said, whimpering, with his fist in his eye. "Now, and I won't peach on me pal. I hope he made his getaway," and he glanced uneasily in the direction of the kitchen. In there Mr. Molasky dashed. The two pairs of shoes were still on the table, but there was no more of the "burglar."

The captive said his name was Frank Genke, that he was twelve years old, and lived with his mother and father at No. 53 South Second street, just in the rear of the Molaskys' apartment.

"We planned the job two or three days ago," he said, "and I finds out from de cook you're gon' to de feeder to night, so I ups off me pal. He muddle puts me to bed early, but when she gets poundin' de hay I slips out an' meets me pal in de back yard."

See what I got out of his pocket," said Mrs. Molasky, holding out a pocket-book containing exactly 25 cents. It was her purse, and it was all the swag the "burglar" had been able to find before he was surprised.

Frank Genke was taken to the Bedford Avenue station, and yesterday arranged in the Brooklyn Children's Court. Policeman Krummell took two pairs of shoes, and as Frank refuses to "peach on his pal," the police will endeavor to locate the missing "burglar" through his captured footweel.

BALLOON TRIES DIZZY ASCENT, NOW MISSING

Capt. Mueller and Aid Sought to Ascend 20,000 Feet—
Have Not Returned.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24.—Anxiety is felt here for the safety of Capt. August Mueller and H. G. Hutchinson, who ascended yesterday in the big balloon United States, intending to reach an altitude of 20,000 feet if possible. The ascent was intended merely as an experimental one and the bag was filled with illuminating gas which it was estimated would hold the basket up for at least twelve hours.

Nothing has been seen of the balloon since yesterday afternoon, when it was still over the city, but at a great height, from San Bernardino came a report that an object light in the heavens, which may or may not have been the balloon, was kept over that city. At midnight a message from that city said nothing more had been seen or heard of the balloon.

Jack Ferris, the owner of the balloon, says that it could not possibly remain up during the night. The sky is full of clouds and a storm is threatened.

GREMANS WANT 2-CENT POST.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—Various Chambers of Commerce in Germany are petitioning the Imperial Secretary of Posts to establish a two-cent postal rate between Germany and the United States such as now exists between England and the United States. Business houses in Germany to-day send their packages for America by mail to England, to be forwarded there under the lower rate.

This Recipe Conquers Deep-Seated Coughs Quickly

This simple home-made remedy, made by the recipe below, usually conquers a stubborn cough in twenty-four hours. Although inexpensive nothing more effective could be bought for ten times the cost. It is a splendid thing to have in the house, for if taken when the first symptoms of a cold or cough appear it will enable you to avoid the usual annoyance and suffering. This recipe is worth saving:

Granulated Sugar Syrup, 13½ oz.
Pinex, 2½ oz.

Take a pint of Granulated Sugar, add half cup of water, stir and let boil for just a moment. Put the Pinex (50 cents a bottle) in a pint bottle and add the Syrup, shake well, and take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours as required.

This simple remedy is also excellent for whooping cough, chest pains, hoarseness and similar ailments. Children take it without the usual howl because the taste is so pleasant. The total cost of a full pint of the mixture is about 75 cents, and will last a whole family a long time.

Use the ingredients as here given. Pinex, being the most valuable constituent and compound of White Pine Extract, is vastly superior to any of the weaker pine oil or pine tar preparations. It is rich in the natural elements of the pine which give the very best of the pine forests its refreshing curative power in rheumatism and other membrane diseases. If your druggist does not have the real Pinex in stock he can easily order it for you if you ask him.

Granulated Sugar makes the best syrup and is a simple, excellent substitute.
